Dear Mr Lukens.

Your kind letter & telegram came to hand & did us all good with their sincere sympathy.
Your telegram came today, & with it came a San Francisco paper in which Helen & I are said to be critically ill. This I am happy to say is not so.
Helen is very much better than when you saw her last & is evidently on the way to complete recovery.
Wanda is quite well. & though as you know I have been overburdened & overworked in every way during the last two eventful months & am almost dead tired. I am gradually growing stronger & hope to get back into working condition again ere long. Possibly now that I have Wanda & Helen comfortably settled here I may possibly pay you a visit within a week or so. In the meantime dear friend I fondly hope & pray your beloved wife is ^{cherished} sustained & soothed in her affliction by our Heavenly Father & that you will always find the sympathy you so heartily bestow on others. We are all your grateful debtors & faithfully yours, Wanda, Helen, & John Missis.
